

The gift world

Considering the gift and the gratitude that follows it as the very nature of the universe and the human beings.

The gifting dynamics gave the tone of the energy flow in the ancient communities, without a hierarchically uplifted controlling point (the church or government).

Questions:

- How this energy-flow of giving and perceiving relates to the inner balance of the self?
- How it relates to breathing, day and night etc., the bodily observations and can we make an impact through this?

The owner changing methods of the things held a ritualistic attitude, a personal connection, a spirit that accompanied the things.

The money matrix built upon constant need and not abundance. People in need become needy and needy makes the greedy. In abundance there is no greed. Nature is abundant.
